I have heard so many stories ~~from about~~ staff who ~~come up to me and say something like,~~ "I just realized that when John walks into the 7-Eleven~~14~~, everyone says hello and knows his name. ~~I~~ they ask how he is!" -Celebrate this!- Here are a few more scenarios to watch for:

- A neighbour waving hello! Excellent ~~==~~ now, who is waving back?
- ~~A~~ clerk at a familiar store smiling and looking at someone in the face. So frequently the community looks away when people with disabilities enter a store, or walk down the street. Be aware ~~of who is actually looking at John in the face, with a smile.~~ These small but significant moments ~~do~~ matter.
- ~~Getting A co-worker~~ ~~inviting someoneed~~ to ~~the~~ work events ~~(-p~~ Potlucks, birthday lunches, Christmas parties).
- ~~Getting A classmate giving~~ high-fives in the hall on the way to class.
- ~~Having someone come up to~~ An acquaintance asking support staff ~~and ask~~ the amazing question, "I haven't seen Amy in a while. ~~I~~ is she okay?"
- Being greeted with "hello" when I walk in the door!

Commented [JM1]: Each bullet point should start in the same way (parallel in structure). I've changed most to mirror the first two points. Feel free to change as you like, as long as they are consistent. Not sure who is doing the greeting in the last point—please add that in.
